About Medical Tourism

Medical Tourism across the world is transforming services for healthcare exponentially.

This emerging field has numerous advantages if tended to with proper planning and coordinated with stakeholders in all sectors of healthcare.

Asia in particular is leading this field and the Hawaiian Islands are perfectly located to harness this market with appropriate services. Many Hawaii based medical stakeholders and hospitality experts are coming together to forge alliances for this future growth economy: from policy to provider to medical education.

At Health Span Hawaii Summit, we are working with all voices to see how this billion-dollar economy of growth can best benefit all across the Hawaiian Islands.

Medical Tourism Industry is Growing

With growth of Medical Tourism globally to grow to USD 28 billion by 2024, Hawaii stands to rapidly expand our hospitality sector simultaneously with this healthcare tourism emerging market, particularly from the Asia-Pacific.

Governments in Japan, South Korea, Thailand and Australia in particular have developed sustainable business models to engage Asia medical tourists with state, private and public hospitals and clinics, as well as their hospitality and wellness businesses--this is why have invited their brightest minds in particularly to address how to harness the Asia Medical Travel market on our special November 5 Medical Tourism Day at the Health Span Hawaii Summit.

Our Hawaii Lieutenant Governor Joshua Green will be officiating our stakeholders planning meeting on September 19, 2019 and we will be releasing our next major publication to attract Asia-Pacific and Global Medical travelers to Hawaii for treatments and stays. He will also be joining us for the big three-day November 3-5, 2019 Health Span Hawaii Summit.
